English

The screenshot displays a software interface for a Dungeons & Dragons 3.5e campaign. The main area features five character sheets, each with a title and an illustration:

- RACES: Illustration of various D&D races including a dwarf, elf, human, gnomish warrior, and a dragonborn.
- SORCERESS: Illustration of a woman in a dark, flowing robe with a glowing aura.
- FAMILIAR: Illustration of a bird of prey perched on a character's shoulder.
- RAKASHAN: Illustration of a dark, horned creature with a sword.
- SHAPE CHANGE: Illustration of a character in a dark, bestial form.

LANGUAGES

All characters may speak (and read unless illiterate) a number of languages equal to their Smarts divided by 2. One language must be their native tongue. Increasing Smarts allows a character to learn a new language if the Game Master feels it's appropriate.

Languages in most fantasy settings include Common, Elvish, Dwarven, and Human. Game Masters should dictate exactly which languages are available in their game.

Language List

Game Masters should decide which languages are allowed in their game, but with enough scope to make an interesting choice rather than just giving long lists of languages. Short and flavorful is far preferable.

The list below is a guideline for assigning a value based on experience use when designing monster races as player races.

Cultural Templates

- ☐ +3 Abilities
- ☐ +2 Abilities
- ☐ +1 Ability
- ☐ -3 Ability

MAKING RACES

All races and cultures begin with a free +2 Racial Ability. This is equivalent to a human's Free Edge. Additional positive abilities must be countered with an equal value of negative ones. A +2 ability, for example, may be countered by a single -2 ability or two -1 abilities.

Game Masters should decide which abilities are allowed in their game, but with enough scope to make an interesting choice rather than just giving long lists of abilities. Short and flavorful is far preferable.

Professional Edges

- ☐ Familiar
- ☐ Adept
- ☐ Artifact Hunter
- ☐ Assassin
- ☐ Knight
- ☐ Troubadour

RACIAL EDGES

- ☐ Adaptable
- ☐ Barbaric Blood
- ☐ Improved Barbaric Blood
- ☐ Double Shot
- ☐ Improved Double Shot
- ☐ Natural Warrior
- ☐ Improved Natural Warrior
- ☐ Scamper
- ☐ Improved Scamper
- ☐ Sunder
- ☐ Improved Sunder

GEAR

This chapter presents new gear, armor, and weapons. There are also descriptions of siege weapons and their effects on Mass Battles.

ITEMS

Below is a list of equipment appropriate to most fantasy settings, with selected notes.

- ☐ Mundane Items
- ☐ Armor
- ☐ Melee Weapons
- ☐ Ranged Weapons

CHARACTERS IN SIEGES

The heroes on either side of a siege have options other than only joining in combat. Characters can engage directly in combat activities, use indirect means in a clandestine action, or try their hands at instigating the enemy. Use the appropriate result to determine the outcome of the action. Use the appropriate result to determine the outcome of the action. Use the appropriate result to determine the outcome of the action.

Damage

Given that a mass battle is somewhat abstract, a week of battle counts as medical attention. A character may carry a wound, or they may roll Vigor to heal any wounds. A character who has had his personal morale recovered. The character following round (with no points spent to remove a wound).

Arcane Skill

Characters may use their powers if they have a power that fits the situation. Since sieges are not applicable, sieges suffer any negative effects.

CHARACTER SIEGE ACTION RESULTS

The character directly joins into the conflict; roll Fighting, Shooting, or Throwing.

- Failure: The hero is stopped and suffers 4d6 damage.
- Success: The hero fights and suffers 3d6 damage.
- Raise: The hero wreaks important assets. He suffers 2d6 damage.
- Two Raises: The warrior kills him, and his success inspires to his side's Battle Roll and morale.

Clandestine Action Results

The character engages in a clandestine action; roll Stealth, Sneak, or Intimidation.

- Failure: The hero is stopped and suffers 4d6 damage.
- Success: The hero succeeds and reduces the fortification's morale.

MORALE MODIFIERS

The principal aim of a siege is to capture the fortification, not reduce it to rubble - that comes afterward, when the defenders aren't firing arrows at you or pouring boiling oil down on you. The easiest way to do this is to simply keep fighting until the defenders start running out of supplies or the will to fight.

The following morale modifiers should be added to the Mass Battle Modifier Table in Savage Worlds for sieges.

SIEGE MORALE MODIFIER

Modifier	Event
-1	Supplies reduced
-2	Supplies exhausted
+X	The defenders capture the fortification (to be determined by the GM)

SIEGE ENGINES

Siege engines are designed primarily to smash enemy fortifications and massed troops. They require multiple crewmembers to use effectively and are rarely of use against small or mobile targets, such as individual soldiers; thus they are unlikely to be utilized very often in the standard combat system. Knowing players, we've provided those stats anyway.

Siege Engines

Conventional Siege Engines

Item	Range	Damage	Bonus
Ballista	25/30 100	3d8	+1
Bombard	50/10 0/0	3d8	+3
Bore*	-	2d6+	+2
Catapult	-	-	-

FORTIFICATIONS

Every knight needs a castle and every wizard a tower. The following sample fortifications are baselines but can easily be renamed to serve multiple functions in the game. A country could have a garrisoned keep on the lands near its border that could be represented equally by a small castle, a hill fort, or a motte and bailey, depending on its particular function and perhaps the money invested in it. Prices are included as a guide for GMs. Characters should seek permission from the landowner before embarking on a construction project.

Fortifications

Fortification	Toughness	Wall	Gate	Defenders	Supplies	Protection Bonus
Castle	35	-	-	15	1000	+3
